HOUSE OF PEERS.

Monday, July 5.

This day, the Duke of Gordon was introduced to the House of Peers by the Duke of Roxburgh and the Earl of Berkley, and took his seat as Earl of Norwich and Baron Gordon of Huntly, his Grace having relinquished the title of Baron of Castle-Rising, at the request of the family of Howard, who possess the estate of that name.

The order of the day was then read, for the further consideration of the appeal of Duncan against the Magistrates of Aberdeen. The Lord Chancellor came forward from the woolsack, and entered very minutely into the proceedings, making his observations on what had fallen from the counsel on both sides. His Lordship spoke for upwards of an hour; and from the able manner in which he delivered his thoughts, he must have taken more than ordinary pains to have made himself master of so intricate a business. His Lordship concluded with a motion to remit the cause to the Court of Session in Scotland, to give judgment in certain questions proposed by his Lordship, and gave some necessary directions for that purpose. Ordered accordingly.

Counsel were then called to the bar, to be heard on the appeal of Mr William Milligan, minister of Kirkcaldy, against Sir John Wedderburn, and others, heritors of Kirkcaldy, when, after hearing the Lord Advocate in part, the further consideration was put off till to-morrow.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Monday, July 6.

That 77,853l. be granted for the charge of several army corps incurred at different periods.

Passed the Irish Postage bill.

Deferred till Friday the Committee on the glass manufacture.

Made some progress in the Committee on the smuggling laws. To proceed on Wednesday.

Ordered Sir Ashton Lever's bill to be engrossed, and to be read a third time on Thursday.

Ordered in the report of the Aliens bill on the morrow.

In a Committee of Ways and Means, came to 24 resolutions for laying duties on the importation of several species of goods, on which the new taxes were levied last week, and which are to be reported on the morrow.

Deferred till Wednesday the supply.

Ordered a new writ for Hereford, in the room of Lord Somers, who makes his election for Carlisle.

Mr Herbert Mackworth reported the decision of the Colchester Committee, that Christopher Potter was not duly elected, and moved that a new writ be ordered to elect a member for the said borough.

The Attorney-General observed, that the report was imperfect, and did not declare the election void.

Prerogative took it as a report perfectly competent to the authority which the House required, as the worthy Baronet, a member of the Committee which tried the merits of the election, and a new writ for a fresh one.

Mr Pitt said, that the motion for issuing a new writ for a fresh election, was not an instruction of the Committee to their deputation that the Speaker do issue a new writ was then carried without a division.

House then went into a Committee, Sir Watkin Lewin in the Chair, when

Mr Edward Ashley moved, that certain duties on goats hair, combs, &c. be taken off under certain restrictions.

Mr Edward Ashley said, as the restrictions alluded to brought the duties to his view, he would decline the opposition he intended.

The questions were then severally put and carried.

Mr Gilbert having taken the Chair on the smuggling bill, mentioned a number of clauses to which he had objections.

Among these he thought the words four seas were too indefinite as to the expressions; he said he had consulted the gentlemen of the bar and the navy, who were able to give him no satisfaction on that head; therefore, wished that something more explicit could be substituted. After some pointed observations, he further observed, that a clause in the bill made the ill-treating a revenue officer, within the limits intended by the act, felony; so that were an indifferent individual to fall into a quarrel with a revenue officer on the sea, who should happen to be on his passage between England and Ireland, the act as it now stood made it felony; he wished, therefore, that the following words be added by way of amendment, and whilst in the execution of his duty.

Mr Wilberforce mentioned the difficulties to which the restrictive clause would reduce mariners on their passages, who must have those quantities of spirits on board that were necessary on the voyage, in proportions intended for voyages that are general were long, and which rendered the vessel liable to seizure, though on board for no illicit purpose, on which account he avowed his opposition to that part of the bill.

Mr Walter Stanhope made the same objections in regard to other articles.

The Attorney-General assured the Hon. Gentleman, that were he to honour him with his presence in the Exchequer Court for one term, he would then be convinced, that more verdicts were given against the crown, upon such occasions, than were to be wished; he pointed out the distinction between instituting a suit, and the principles of deciding it. The consideration of this business was then put off till Wednesday.

The Speaker having now taken the chair, several bills were reported, after which the Chancellor of the Exchequer moved, that leave be given to bring in a bill to continue the act for appointing Commissioners for inspecting and stating the national accounts for twelve months more, which was granted.

The House having then resolved itself into a committee on the Shetland petition, the Marquis of Graham in the chair.

Mr Dempster moved that an humble address be presented to his Majesty, thanking him for his gracious condescension in taking into his royal consideration the petition of the inhabitants of the island of Shetland; and assuring his Majesty, that his House of Commons would co-operate with his royal intention, in granting such aid and relief as the wisdom of Parliament should find necessary.

Sir Tho. Dundas informed the House, that as their fisheries were now near being of use, they would soon be able to procure themselves some resource; which, added to the bounty petitioned for, would extricate them from their present misery; their small fish would be cured for home consumption, the larger for sale; and as their harvest was near approaching, it also made their request moderate. He said, that 500 quarters of barley, at 4s. 6d. per quarter, and 40 ton of biscuit, at 7l. per quarter, would be sufficient.

Mr Rolle wished gentlemen to be cautious of furnishing a precedent of this nature, as he knew that in Devonshire, and other parts of the west of England, the farmers had suffered very severely in the loss of their cattle, and by such an example might be encouraged to make the same applications.

Sir William Cunningham said, nature had made a wide difference in the two climates; on one she had bestowed opulent resources, in the other the gentlemen of the country cannot at all times command their own rents, and every relief that humanity could afford there was exhausted; he hoped, therefore, the humanity of the House would not leave itself so open to reflection, as to deny the small boon petitioned for. The petition was then ordered to be reported on the morrow.

Mr Fox desired to know what day was fixed for bringing on the loan bill, as he intended to state some objections to it.

Mr Rose said he thought the Right Hon. Gentleman meant to oppose not the loan bill, but the bill for funding the navy and ordnance debt, which he said was to come on separately.

Mr Fox replied, that the Hon. Gentleman was right, and he was glad to be informed they were to come on separately; to the former, however, he had no objection, but would be glad to know when the latter was to come on, as he meant to give it some opposition.

Mr Rose said, the former would come on to-morrow, the latter in a few days.—Adjourned at six.

From the London Papers, July 6.

Madrid, June 4. The Court hath just received an account of a terrible accident which happened at Ronda, a fortress of Spain in the kingdom of Granada. The principal square in the city sunk and fell in, with all the houses that surrounded it; the number of inhabitants buried under the ruins is computed at 3000. The naturalists attribute this disaster to the continual rains this year, which have successively undermined the foundation of the rock on which the city was built.

EDINBURGH.

Extract of a letter from London, July 6.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, TUESDAY.

SHEPHERD PETITION.

"This day, the House of Commons met, and it was moved that 5600 l. be given for the relief of the inhabitants of Shetland, which was accordingly granted.

INDIA BUSINESS.

"Major Scott pledged himself to prove to the House, that, during the last seven years, there had been a drain of seven millions from the kingdom of Bengal; and that the same sum would be repaid in seven years. He moved for certain papers relative to that subject to be laid on the table.

"The Chancellor of the Exchequer, being called upon by the Speaker, rose up, and there was a general silence throughout the House. The occasion was certainly great. There is not, in the history of the world, an instance of any nation dictating laws for the government of such extensive and populous territories as the kingdoms subject to the power of Great Britain in India.

"Mr Pitt modestly expressed the very great anxiety which he naturally felt, when he was called upon to propose new regulations, on a subject so intricate and so important as that which the order of this day had brought before them; a subject which had been repeatedly discussed, but which yet remained for discussion. The commerce and territorial property possessed by this nation in India, at all times most valuable and important, derived a vast increase of value and importance from the many dominions we had lost in the course of the last war. India was the chief resource to which we could look for restoring and confirming the credit and the strength of our diminished empire. It was a source of commerce—the parent of national wealth—the grand support of national greatness. There was no man, therefore, so insensible to interest and to national pride, as not to feel himself deeply concerned in the measures that should be adopted for the government of such invaluable possessions. The happiness, too, of so many millions of men, connected with us as fellow-men, and as subjects of the same government, must interest many in the result of this night's deliberations. But what, of all other considerations, was the nearest and the most affecting—the decisions of the Legislature with regard to India might very materially affect the British Constitution. We began in the last session of last Parliament with other considerations, but with this we ended. This touches us in a tender part. It is of more importance to guard against any danger here, than to acquire the greatest advantages in other respects. Mr Pitt then adverted to the great difficulty of uniting in one system all possible advantages, and avoiding all disadvantages. He also observed, that, at first glance, it was absurd to suppose that such extended dominions as we possessed in the East could be properly governed by a company of merchants. But he affirmed, that, on the present occasion, they were not to be directed by theoretical speculation merely; but to blend, to correct, to consolidate system by practice. Accidents, the progression of commerce, and the fate of arms, had given rise to an actual state of things, and to this they were to have respect. The East India Company, with whose prosperity the interest of the nation was intimately connected, had risen to their present opulence and greatness by commerce. It was the commerce with India that was therefore to be held as the object of the first importance, and to which inferior objects, if they could not be reconciled, must be sacrificed. But it was a consolation to him, he said, under manifold difficulties, that the prosperity of commerce, the preservation of the territorial property and revenue, and the happiness of the natives of India, were all intimately connected, and dependent on each other.

"In forming a system for the regulation of India affairs, he said, that they ought, as much as possible, to have respect to the chartered rights of the Company. Here he touched upon the strong expressions of disapprobation, which had been manifested towards a contrary conduct by the whole nation. They wished to new-model, rather than create. In order to reform, it was not necessary to begin with humiliation. The Company were better qualified than any other set of men to manage their own commercial concerns; they had shown themselves capable of doing so; and in their hands, in his mind, their commercial concerns should still remain.

"But, in the course of things, it had happened that in the East, besides commercial advantages, we had gained great territorial property; and it was reasonable that Government should have a part of what their arms had so great a share in acquiring: And as commercial concerns should be left in the hands of the Company, so political matters should be committed to other hands.

"It would accordingly be the business of the Bill he should move this evening, to determine, 1st, Into what hands the political or civil affairs of the British possessions in India should be entrusted: 2dly, What should be the extent of that power which should be confided to them: And, 3dly, By what means the obedience of the persons to whom such a trust they were to be checked and controlled; and by what rendered responsible for their actions, and punishable for their delinquencies.

"And, first, With regard to the hands in which the Government of India should be entrusted, there was an enquiry which met him in the very threshold of this business; namely, whether the delegated power in governing India should be permanent or temporary. Here he was aware, that he should differ in opinion from some of his friends, who, altho' they disapproved another Bill on other accounts, yet approved it with regard to that permanency which it bestowed on the seven Commissioners: But that was a permanency, he observed, that was unknown to the constitution. He was for no permanency that did not depend on good behaviour. The principle that gave permanency of another kind, was inconsistent with the spirit of the British government. As well might all the different subjects of British legislation and government be committed to different councils or committees of Parliament, as that the government of India should be ceded to Commissioners, whose influence would renew their authority from time to time, and prolong it indefinitely. He insisted on the confusion which such a plan would have occasioned in the British government, as well as on its inconsistency with the British constitution; and, having wholly reprobated the idea of permanency, proceeded to enquire into what hands the government of India might be most safely lodged with regard to our situation at home, and most advantageously with regard to our foreign connections. On this subject, said Mr Pitt, I was going to say, that it should be lodged anywhere but with the executive government. But, on reflection, I must check this sentiment, and affirm, that it would be equally dangerous to place it in the hands of any body, or political party of men whatever, who might make it an engine of raising their power above the other branches of government. Here he digressed a little to the nature of the British constitution, which, in opposition to certain novel doctrines, he maintained, consisted in a balance of three distinct powers. The government of our political affairs in the East, he was clearly of opinion, ought, like the other parts of our constitution, framed by the experience of ages, and the wisdom of our provident ancestors, to be committed to men who should be responsible for their conduct; and the nomination of those men, he thought, should be vested, analogously to the whole of our civil constitution, in the Crown. He was aware, that gentlemen, whom he had in his eye, would plead, that the influence which was taken from the seven Commissioners would, by the present bill, be added to the Crown. In general, Mr Pitt assured the House, that the bill had provided with good care against that objection. It deprived the Ministers of the Crown of the great share of the patronage of the East India Company, and gave it to the servants of the Company residing in India. And he observed, that neither was the patronage that remained aimed to Ministry, and the servants of the Company in India, so great, as that which was to have been given to the seven Commissioners; nor being dispersed and diffused among so many hands, and at so great a distance from the seat of government, so dangerous, as if it had been concentrated in the hands of Ministry at the helm of affairs in London. He allowed that the Commander in Chief was to be appointed by the Crown; but that officer, as well as those in subordination to him, were to be nominated and restrained by the bill, as that they could not enjoy any unbounded patronage, nor the servants of the Crown by their means, as he would by and by make it to appear.

He now explained his meaning more particularly than he had done, concerning the persons who should be entrusted with the controul and regulation of Indian affairs. In general, he said, he had formerly had occasion to lay before the House on this subject. He still was of opinion, that eight Directors appointed by the Company, should, in ordinary cases, transmit orders, and carry on the government of India—their dispatches being subject to the revision and veto of Commissioners to be appointed by the crown. But the bill enacted, moreover, that the Commissioners, or Board appointed by the crown, should be at liberty, on extraordinary occasions, to transmit orders without the privacy or previous consent of the eight assistant Commissioners; although these were, in all cases, to be made acquainted with whatever related to commerce.

On the mode of punishing criminals in India, many of the Chancellor's ideas were at once new and comprehensive. The other parts of the proposed bill, were very similar to that which he himself proposed in a former session.

Mr Fox did not then mean to anticipate the arguments, which he found it would be requisite for him to use on a future occasion. He would satisfy himself with observing, that it had given him no small degree of concern to find, that so many parts of the intended bill, for the regulation of India, were imperfect, and inadequate to the ends for which they were intended. That part which respected the punishment of criminal cases in India, he thought was highly proper:—All others were not only inconsistent with his ideas, but diametrically opposite to them. He did not despair of being able to show, that the Right Hon. Gentleman's bill would be so far from answering all the beneficial purposes which he had in view, that it would even prove detrimental to the interest of the India Company, and in some measure subversive of the constitution of this country. He begged to be informed by the Right Hon. Gentleman, whether those regulations which related to the territorial concerns of India, and those which related to the commercial concerns only of that country, were to be included in the same bill; and when the first and second reading of the India bill were to take place.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer did not see the least reason for making more bills than one. He had therefore resolved to comprehend the whole of the laws that were to constitute the system of their government, in one bill. He proposed Friday next for the reading the bill for the first time, and as early as possible next week for the second reading of it.

Mr Fox signified his intention to oppose strongly some of the general ideas contained in the new India bill.

Leave was then given to bring in the bill on Friday.—Adjourned till to-morrow.

On Tuesday the 15th of June, died at Calcutta, Major Charles Cameron, Captain in the late 76th regiment of foot, much and justly regretted; and it is entreated that his, and his disconsolate widow's numerous friends and relations, will accept of this notification of his death.

We hear from undoubted authority, that a number of members of Parliament waited upon Mr Pitt relative to the coal tax. Mr Pitt candidly declared, that he would not persist in forcing down a tax that was generally obnoxious to the people, provided they could fix on a tax in its place that would be equally productive.

The coal tax would be nearly equal to 1 s. 3 d. per cart in Edinburgh.

Mr Charteris, minister of Wiltown, having declined accepting a presentation for St Andrew's church, Glasgow, on Tuesday, the Magistrates and Town-Council met on that business, when the Rev. It must afford a sensible pleasure to every well-wisher to his country to observe, with what zeal all parties in Parliament agreed with each other in support of Mr Dempster's motion concerning the fisheries of Scotland.

We are happy to learn, that Administration have also taken this great object into consideration, and mean seriously to give all the support that the nature of the undertaking shall be found to require. But as former attempts to establish the fisheries have failed in consequence of plans being hastily adopted by former Ministers, without a due knowledge of all the circumstances of the case, they have determined to proceed at present with a more cautious degree of circumspection, that they may be enabled, at the same time, to give the fisheries effectual support, and avoid every useless expence, which can tend only to waste the national treasure without benefiting the public. With this view, they have made choice of Dr James Anderson (a gentleman well known for many patriotic public services) to make a tour among the islands, and along the coasts of Britain, to obtain, upon the spot, authentic information as to the state of the fisheries, and the most probable means of improving them. We hear he will set out on this tour in a few days, and we cannot help forming sanguine hopes of the issue of an undertaking begun upon so rational a plan. Never had the natives of these distant regions so favourable an opportunity of communicating to the legislative council, and the ruling powers of the nation, a fair state of their real situation and circumstances, and we make no doubt but they will make the best use of it.

Several of these, under the signature of AGRICOLA, our readers will recollect having seen some years ago in all the Scotch periodical publications.

NOTICE

To the Creditors of WILLIAM CLARK Merchant in Greenock.

HAT upon the application of the said William Clark, with concurrence of William Brightmore for himself, and as one of the partners of Loftus Brightmore and Company, merchants in Sheffield, creditors to him in a sum above what is required by act of Parliament, the Lord Swinton, Ordinary, officiating on the Hills; did, upon the 11th day of May last, sequester the whole real and personal estate of the said William Clark wherever situated; and appointed a meeting of the creditors to be held in the house of Peter McKinnay vintner in Glasgow, upon the 16th day of May last, for the purpose of choosing an interim factor in terms of the act of Parliament.

That although this meeting was duly advertised, none of the creditors qualified to vote in terms of the act appeared, and consequently the business of the meeting could not be proceeded in, whereby it became necessary again to apply to the Court for a renewal of the time when the fore said meeting should be held. The Court, upon an application made to them for that purpose, accordingly renewed the time for that meeting, and appointed it to be held in the house of the said Peter McKinnay, upon Tuesday the 27th day of July current, at twelve o'clock noon, for the purpose of choosing an interim factor in terms of the statute. This notice is therefore now given, of which it is begged all concerned will attend to.

NOTICE

To the Creditors of JOHN CHRISTIAN of Canning-park, late Merchant in Ayr.

But as very few creditors attended that meeting, they adjourned, without coming to any resolution, to Thursday the 22d current.—The creditors are therefore again requested to meet, for the purposes above mentioned, in the house of the said Robert Wharton, on Thursday the said 22d of July current, at 12 noon.

I. The Barony of CLOWDEN, alias NEW-ARK.

ARK, lying in the parish of Kirkpatrick Irongray, and Stewartry of Kirkcubright, comprehending the lands and farms of Rowton-bridge, Upper, Nether, and Mid Dalwhairn, Lagg, Rouchtree, Hallhill, Cubboxholm, Newark Braes, Whinnihill, Ingelston, Galefide, or Kirkpatrick and Clowden, with the corn, barley, and wheat mills, a salmon fishing in the river Clowden, and the vice patronage of the parish of Kirkpatrick Irongray.

This estate is of a remarkable good soil, well inclosed and subdivided with stone dykes, and thriving full grown hedges; it is at present in good condition, and there is sufficiency of shell marle upon it to keep it 60. It contains about 1870 acres, whereof 1500 are arable and meadow, about 90 wood land, and the remainder very good pasture. The present rent is 841 l. 6 s. 1 d. Sterling, but a considerable rise may be depended on at the expiry of the current leases. It holds of the Crown, and stands rated in the Cess-books at 1260 l. 10 s. Scots. The tiends are valued, and the purchaser will have right to them.

The woods are well inclosed, and very thriving; at last cutting, they sold for upwards of 700 l. Sterling, exclusive of the woods on Hallhill, which are presently fit for sale.

This estate is pleasantly situated on the banks of the river Clowden, within three miles of the town of Dumfries, and it has many delightful situations upon it for building a mansion-house, which would command the view of the rivers Nith and Clowden, the town and port of Dumfries, the whole Gentlemen's seats in that rich and populous neighbourhood, the Solway frith, and the Cumberland hills.

II. The lands of Over and Nether BARNCLEUGHS, lying in the said parish and county, within a mile and an half of Clowden, consisting of about 200 acres, whereof 160 are arable, and 19 moss, where there is an inexhaustible quantity of shell marle.

These lands are all sufficiently inclosed and subdivided with good stone walls. The present rent is only 30 l. but when the current lease expires, four years hence, a considerable rise will be got.

The tiends are valued, and the purchaser will have right to them.

III. The lands and estate of GELSTON, lying in the parishes of Kelton and Buile, and county aforesaid, comprehending the farms of Boreland and Gelston, with the mill and mill-lands; and Craigley in the parish of Kelton and Buile, in the parish of Buile, containing about 1360 acres, all of an exceeding rich quality, well inclosed and subdivided, with stone walls, and full grown fencible hedges.

On this estate, there is a good Mansion-house and offices, with a garden and orchard, and some thriving plantations; and an inexhaustible quantity of shell marle for improving the same, and for sale to the neighbouring heitors.

The estate is Let to good tenants, at 600 l. 15 s. Sterling, of yearly rent; the whole holds of the Crown, and the lands of Boreland afford a freehold qualification on the old extent. The tiends are valued, and the purchaser will have right to them in the parish of Buile, and to a current tack of the tiends in the parish of Kelton.

The situation of Gelston is very convenient and inviting, being within three miles of the sea-port of Auchairn, on the Solway frith, and two miles of the great military road leading from Carlyle to Portpatrick, to both of which there are good roads.

IV. These parts of the Barony of GLASNOCK, lying in the parish of Penningham and county of Wigton, comprehending the farms of Over and Nether Gasknocks, Killeal, Kirkchrist, and Killymore, with a salmon fishing in the river Bladnock, and the superiority of the lands of Drummorey and Carbuie, lying in the parish of Kirkcowan, and county of Wigton.

There are good grazing lands, both for black cattle and sheep. The present rent, including the feu duties in Kirkcowan parish, is only 114 l. 12 s. 9 d. 6-12ths, but the tenants paid large grassums in 1766, when their leases commenced; so in 1787, when they expire, a great rise may be depended on, large offers being already made. The tiends are valued, and the tenants pay all the public burdens, stipend excepted.

V. The farm of CULSCADDEN, in the parish of Sorbie and county of Wigton, also part of the said Barony of Glasnock, let at 160 l. per annum, consisting of about 290 acres, all good arable land, except about 15 acres lying on the Bay of Wigton, and having a safe port for exporting the produce of the lands.

The tiends are valued.

The title deeds, conditions of sale, tacks, rentals, plans, and measurements of the several estates before-mentioned, will be seen in the hands of William Campbell writer to the signet; and for further information apply to Alexander Farquharson accountant in Edinburgh, who has power to sell by private bargain.

John Linton in Galefide, near Dumfries, will show the estate of Clowden, Mr Heron, jun. of Ingelston, the estate of Gelston, and Mr Cockburn at Cree-bridge, the lands in Wigton thire.

BY ADJOURNMENT,

And Price reduced to Eighteen Years Purchase.

LANDS OF BLAIRNGONE.

TO be exposed to SALE, by public roup, and by authority of the Court of Session, within John's Coffehouse in Edinburgh, on Wednesday the 18th day of July 1784, at five o'clock afternoon.

THESE FIVE SIX PARTS of the Town and Lands of BLAIRNGONE, with the tiends thereof, all in one lot, at the upset price of 2164 l. 7 s. 11 d. Sterling.

If they be not sold in one lot, they will be exposed in two, as follow: I. These FOUR SIXTH PARTS of the said Town and Lands, with the tiends, which pertained to the deceased Robert Alice, at the upset price of 1731 l. 10 s. 4 d. Sterling.

II. That other SIXTH PART of the said Town and Lands, with the tiends thereof, which once belonged to Edward Rutherford of Pathmill, at the upset-price of 432 l. 17 s. 7 d. Sterling.

For the encouragement of purchasers, and to insure a sale, all these upset-prices are now brought down to about eighteen years purchase of the free rent, which is about 24 l. 11 d. for each sixth part; the feu-duty, cess, and all other public burdens being paid by the tenants, besides the forefard free-rent.

All the tacks commenced 17 years ago, and expired at Martinmas last, except one, which is current only to Martinmas next, so that a considerable rise of rent may be expected. And as all obstructions to the sale are now removed, the Public may depend on the roup's taking place at this time.

The lands lie in the parish of Falloway, and shire of Perth, pleasantly situated on the banks of the water of Doan, about twelve miles from Perth, six from Dunfermline, and four from Alloa. They are very extensive and improvable, there being great plenty of free-flood, lime, and coal in the ground; and the proprietor of the other sixth part is desirous of having the lands divided immediately after the sale, which must greatly raise the rent and value.

The conditions of roup, rental, and progress of writs are in the hands of Thomas Ruthven writer in Edinburgh; and John Taylor coal-grieve at Blairngone will show the lands.

BY ADJOURNMENT.

TO be SOLD by public roup, by authority of the Court of Session, within the Parliament or new Session House of Edinburgh, upon Thursday the 22d day of July 1784, between the hours of four and six in the afternoon.

THE LANDS OF EASTER GLINNS,

CONSISTING OF

I. The Forty-shilling Land of EASTER GLINNS, and Tiends, paragonage and vicarage thereof, lying in the parish of Balfroon, and shire of Stirling as for principal, with the Lands of KAYSTON, lying in the said parish and shire, in real warrandice. — The free proven rent of Easter Glins, after deduction of all burdens, is 561 l. 16 s. 11 d. 8-12ths, Sterling, and the upset price (being 23 years purchase, the value put thereon by the Lords) is 1307 l. 10 s. 4 d. 4-12ths Sterling.

This parcel holds of a subject superior, and the tiends thereof are valued and exhalted.

II. These parts of the Lands of BROICH, called Knowhead, Hatherston, (now Wrights Park) and Baduluan, together with the tiends, paragonage, and vicarage of the same, lying in the parish of Kippen, barony of Bucklyvie, and shire of Stirling, together with a proportional part of the seat in the kirk of Kippen belonging to these lands, as for principal; and the rest of the said lands of Broich in warrandice. The free proven rent stock and tiend of this parcel is 291 l. 4 s. 9 d. 4-12ths Sterling, which at 23 years purchase, the value put thereon by the Lords, is 902 l. 9 s. 10 d. 8-12ths Sterling, the upset price. These lands also hold of a subject.

III. These two Mailings, part of the Lands of SHIRGARTON, with the Tiends and pertinents, called Powhill and Muirend, lying in the parish of Kippen, and shire of Perth. The free proven rent of these mailings, stock and tiend, is 27 l. 3 s. 2 d. 5-12ths Sterling, and the upset price, as fixed by the Lords at 23 years purchase, is 624 l. 13 s. 7 d. 7-12ths. They hold of a subject superior.

The proof of the rental of the above lands was taken in August 1780, when most of the tacks upon the estate were expired. The total free rent by that proof is 123 l. 4 s. 11 d. 5-12ths, since which the Lords factor has let the lands at the advanced rent of near 160 l. All the tacks (except one of about 8 l.) expire with the present crop; so that the purchaser may enter into the natural possession of the lands the first year of his purchase.

There is a genteel mansion-house with suitable offices on the premises, and the whole lands are known to be good grass and arable farms; and having the advantage of limestone upon the grounds, a proprietor might highly improve them at an easy expence.

The title deeds, rental, and articles of sale, may be seen at the office of Mr Alexander Ross, one of the deputy clerks of session, and in the hands of William Tytler, writer to the signet; and the tenants will show the grounds. — Particulars may also be learned from Mr John Burn writer in Stirling.

The lands of Killylung and Netherhouses are well inclosed, and subdivided, partly with belts of planting, and some parts with stone dykes; and the whole of the lands are plentifully supplied with excellent water. They will be sold altogether or separately, as persons intending to purchase may desire.

UPSET PRICE REDUCED. SALE of the ESTATE OF ORCHARDTON.

In the STEWARTRY OF KIRKCUDBRIGHT—In Whole or in Lots.

TO be SOLD by public roup, within the Exchange Coffehouse in Edinburgh, upon Friday the 23d of July 1784, the roup to begin at five o'clock afternoon.

All and Whole the Lands and Estate of ORCHARDTON, lying within the parishes of Buile, Renick, and united parishes of Quilston and Kelton, and Stewartry of Kirkcubright.

This estate consists of 3267 acres Scots measure, whereof there are 1690 acres of rich arable ground, and 1577 acres of excellent pasture. Almost the whole estate is inclosed, and the arable farms are subdivided with good fences. The farm houses, which are timbered with the best foreign wood, and covered with slates, and office-houses, are in the very best order, most of them having been built within these three or four years. The free rent of the estate is 1084 l. Sterl. after deduction of public burdens, and by subdividing the larger farms, a considerable sum of rent might be obtained. The tenants are in general men of wealth, and are carrying on great improvements by means of lime, marle, sea shells, &c. with which the lands are plentifully supplied.

The natural wood on this estate is extensive, and the whole of it is fit for cutting; from a late appreciation it appears, that the value of the wood is upwards of 500 l. Sterling.

Upon the lands of New Orchardton there has been lately built a large, elegant, and commodious mansion-house, with a complete set of offices, houses, and houses for labouring servants, executed in the most substantial manner. In erecting and completing which buildings, there has been expended upwards of 3000 l. Sterling. There is also a good garden and orchard well stocked with fruit trees.

The House of Orchardton is delightfully situated near the Bay of Hilton on the Solway Frith, and has a commanding prospect of the coast of England on the opposite shore. Within the bounds of the estate are several good harbours, fit to receive vessels of considerable burden, particularly one within 300 yards of the house of Orchardton; from the Bay near the house, the family residing there may at all seasons be plentifully supplied with a variety of fish, which are taken by the servants, without difficulty, by placing nets at low water. —Among the many advantages which this estate enjoys, it may be remarked, that it lies in a country where the spring and summer are earlier than in any other place in Scotland, and the cold and other disagreeable effects of the cold winter are scarcely felt.

The whole estate holds of the Crown for payment of small feu and blanch duties, and stands valued in the cess-books at 1047 l. 5 s. 6 d. which, with two forty-shilling lands of old extent, entitles the proprietor to four freehold qualifications.

If the estate is not sold in cumulo, it will be exposed in lots as follow.

LOT I.—Mains of Orchardton, Chapelcroft, Blackbelly, &c. New Mill of Orchardton and Glenfinnock, and Mill of Auchincrae.

NOTA. This lot includes the mansion-house, and all the natural wood.

LOT II.—The Farm of Clonyards, lying detached from the rest of the estate.

LOT III.—The Farm of Caigton.

For further particulars enquire at the proprietor at Orchardton house, William Keith accountant in Edinburgh, or at James Baillie at the Stamp Office, who will show the tacks, rental, progress of writs, and plan and measurement of the estate. Any person inclining to treat by private bargain before the day of sale may apply, as above.
